OU vocational program begins Tuesday with business seminar

Vocations agenda

Here is the first Vocations Week agenda. All exhibits and seminars will be in Room 209 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Seminar discussions will be from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. each day.

Tuesday: Cost and Industrial Accounting—James H. Hunter, C.P.A., Supervisor of General Accounting of Ford Motor Company.

Wednesday: Public Accounting—J. H. Imig, C.P.A., senior partner of Irwin-Imig Co. of Omaha.

Thursday: Governmental Accounting—Alton J. Danner, C.P.A. with the Internal Revenue Service, Omaha.

Goodrich, Pierce, Sklenar are student chairmen at first accounting sessions

Tuesday marks the first day of a year-long vocations program at Omaha U.

The first in the series of vocations seminars will be devoted to accounting, which will last from Tuesday through Friday. During the week of Feb. 19-22 the College of Education will hold its seminars.

Proclamation:

That you—the students—may be better prepared to make one of the most important decisions which you will ever be called upon to make; namely, the decision that involves your choice of a vocation or a profession, we are inaugurating the week of February 11, 1952, a series of vocational programs to replace our former Vocations Day. Each week a major profession or vocation will be emphasized.

You are most cordially invited—yes, you are urged—to visit the exhibits and attend the seminars which will be conducted by experts in their field. We hope you will make the most of this opportunity to learn about the various vocations and professions which are open to you.

Milo Bail, President

Student chairmen of the accounting seminars are Jack Goodrich, Robert Pierce and Herb Sklenar. Assisting them will be members of Delta Sigma Pi and Phi Theta Chi, men's and women's business fraternities.

In addition, Paul T. Crossman, faculty chairman of the accounting program, stated that representatives of local business firms will visit the seminars looking for students to fill job opportunities.

Following the accounting seminars, the education group, with Dr. Frances Holliday as chairman, will take over the vocations spotlight.

Ernie Gorr, physical education instructor, will be in charge of the first day's seminars, with Harold Wood, assistant professor of education, serving as chairman.

Glen Pickrel, superintendent of School District No. 66, will address the Wednesday session on "Secondary Education as a Profession." A consultant program including Pickrel, Ira Jones of Tech High School, Dr. L. O. Taylor and Dr. F. H. Gorman will be held Wednesday afternoon.

Wood assigns cadet staff

Temporary assignments for OU's AF-ROTC cadet officers were announced Monday by Lt. Col. Allen H. Wood, professor of air science and tactics.

The wing is commanded by Capt. Robert Stryker and is comprised of two groups commanded by First Lieut. Roger Cross and Capt. Robert Darrah.

Each group has two squadrons. Commanding the first group's squadrons are Second Lieut. Alfred Kummer and Capt. Franklin Sedlacek. The second group's squadrons are commanded by Capt. John Fargher and First Lieut. Herbert White.

The wing staff consists of Capt. William Ryan, executive officer; Capt. Willard Morris, deputy for officer training; Second Lieut. Robert Biegel, deputy for promotions; Second Lieut. Thomas Burke, deputy for operations; and Second Lieut. Robert Bantin, air adjutant general.

Men exceed women in day registrations

Late registration will end Tuesday at Omaha U. "All students for both day and night school are urged to pay their tuition by that time," said Alice C. Smith, registrar.

Approximately 1,353 students are enrolled in day school classes and 1,152 in night school. This is considered only a slight drop from last semester's day class registration of 1,477 students.

Again this semester the men outnumber the women in day school. There are 852 men enrolled as opposed to 501 women.

Doris Hanson, Clarine Lane win $100 scholarships

Doris Hanson and Clarine Lane have received $100 scholarships for the second semester.

Miss Hanson, a major in journalism and advertising, received the Omaha Advertising Club Scholarship from the University

OU journalism clinic draws highschoolers

Those girls in hose and boys in suits walking around the halls today are not university students. They are students from Omaha and surrounding area high schools who are attending the Third Annual High School Journalism Conference.

The clinic is sponsored by the University of Omaha.

Opening the conference at 1 p.m. today will be a seminar on the "Use of the Mimeograph in Newspaper Reproduction," followed by the first general session.

The principal address is slated for 7 p.m. in the auditorium after the banquet. George Yates,

George Yates, chief photographer of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, will present "Hang on to Your Dreams."

Students will bring with them stories, features and complete pages of their papers to be judged in competition. Gateway Certificates of Merit will be presented to the winners in each of these events by this year's editors June Williams and Thomas E. Moore at 7:30 p.m.

of Omaha Committee on Scholarships and Grants.

The Colonial Dames Scholarship was awarded to Miss Lane, a sociology major, who also held the scholarship the first semester.

Senior students meet today

Senior class members will meet today at 2 p.m. in room 438 to plan graduation activities.

The class members will discuss plans for Senior Day, May 23, as well as the appointment of additional committees for the day's festivities.

Also under discussion will be the class budget, including the amount of the fees to be assessed the seniors and where and when fees will be paid.

"The meeting will be short," promises Bernie Anderson, senior class president.

KWOU auditions staff Monday

Tryouts for staff positions for KWOU, OU's radio station, will be held Monday morning in room 310 from 11 to noon and Tuesday morning from 10:45 to noon.

Students interested in writing, engineering, announcing or working in the music department should audition for this semester's staff.

Bruce Linton, head of the Speech Department, is in charge of the station.

Reminder: Attend the Vocational Seminars Starting Tuesday.

Alum convocation Friday will feature pro Lion-'49er game

Classes will be shortened for an alumni convocation next Friday from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m.

Feature of the meeting will be the showing of the Detroit Lions-San Francisco '49ers pro football game by Joe Arenas, star of the game. After the movie, Arenas will head a discussion and question period.

Thetas affiliate with national group Feb. 22

The oldest active fraternity on the Omaha University campus, Theta Phi Delta, will affiliate with Pi Kappa Alpha, national social fraternity, in initiation ceremonies Feb. 22.

The fraternity will become the 104 chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha and will be the fourth OU local fraternity at OU to affiliate with a national social fraternity. It will be known as the Delta Chi chapter.

Fraternity representatives from Kansas State, Kansas University, Drake University and Iowa State will preside at the initiation ceremonies to be followed by a banquet at the Fontenelle Hotel Feb. 23.

The local group claims over 400 alumnus since it was founded on the Omaha University campus in 1915.

OU Debaters play host to Nebraska schools

Omaha U debaters will be host to five other college debate teams Feb. 12 for the Invitational Practice Debate Tournament.

Debaters from Creighton University, Doane College, Midland College, Nebraska University and Peru State Teachers College will participate in the event. The first round will begin at 11 a.m.

Feature of the tournament will be a Coffee Hour Debate at 3:15 p.m. between the OU sophomore debate team and Midland's junior division.

The two teams will argue "Should the federal government adopt a permanent program on wage and price control?" The debate will be held in the faculty clubroom.

Just like Topsy ..

Then there's the story of Topsy, the little girl who "just grow and grew." The story goes that when Topsy was asked how she got so big, she answered "I just grew." The same answer came from John E. Woods, director of student placement, in regard to the expansion of Vocations Day.

From this time on, Vocations Day will be a vocations year, in which exhibits and seminars will be open to day and night school students every week.

Three days of each week will be devoted to a different vocational field. On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday room 209 will house exhibits on the vocation in the limelight for that week. Experts in that vocational field will be on hand each day to discuss all phases of the vocation.

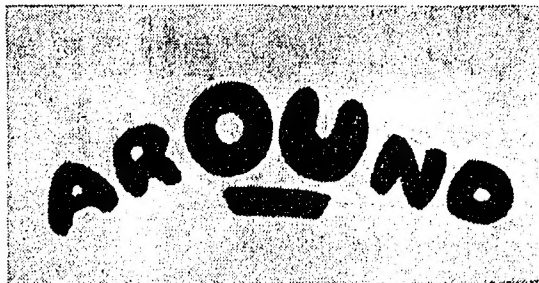

J. E. Woods

Mr. Woods emphasizes that each seminar is open to all students, not just those majoring in the field on exhibit. "Some students may change vocations after investigating the opportunities in other fields," he said.

The Gateway is going along with Mr. Woods in urging all students to visit every exhibit at least once—if only for a few minutes between classes.

It will be beneficial and profitable for students to visit room 209. But we think mostly that it will be just plain interesting. With top people in all vocational fields to answer your questions, committees competing to have the best exhibits and seminars, and most main vocations represented, you'll be seeing one of the best deals OU has to offer.

The old Vocations Day, just like Topsy, has grown. Watch its progress all year.

In an advertising class, the professor was illustrating the fact that advertising can create desires for goods which cannot be purchased. Said the prof, "Some ads make you want something you can't have."

To prove his point, he held up a magazine ad. When the class burst into laughter, the instructor glanced again at the ad. Instead of the late model car that he had intended to show, he had picked up a picture of a blonde model of the Spring Maid type.

Comparison of Air Force blue with several occupational uniforms reached a new high the other day. A cadet officer, somewhat disturbed at his charges' inability to learn the fundamentals of marching, yelled in his best diaphragm-backed voice, "Who do you guys think you are—a gang of Greyhound men going to work?"

Seemingly stung, the unit showed immediate improvement.

A freshman was explaining to his father, a rabid basketball fan, why he received a "D" in his chem course.

"Son," said his father, "I think your 'D' is chemistry represents a lack of work and interest in the course."

"Oh, no," replied the son in desperation, "you told me to get on the team, and I did—the Dean's team!"

Proof of democracy at work at OU was demonstrated the other day.

For some 10 years tables in the cafeteria have been placed in parallel north-south lines. This week cafeteria queen Carolyn Auten decided that the tables should be set in more sociable, single units.

Now only six people can sit at one table, a feature that drew a complaint from a coed. "Now," she pouted, "there are no long tables for sororities or fraternities to sit together."

Principles of democracy were proven when Miss Auten looked at the results of a poll asking for student opinion on the change. Of 17 people questioned, seven were in favor of the change. Said Miss Auen, "We'll keep the tables as they are... say for about 10 years."

Swink has sights trained on pert coeds' firing lines

Even the most casual observer may notice the change around the Fieldhouse on Friday mornings.

The smile on the face of M/Sgt. William Swink is wider and his step is quicker as he directs action on the firing line of the ROTC rifle range.

For that firing line isn't filled with Air Force blue, but with a lineup of co-eds in fetching attire who have their sights trained on producing a winning girl's rifle team for Omaha U.

The new additions are all members of the newly-formed Girl's Rifle Club which is co-sponsored by the Omaha University Women's Intramural group and the Air Force ROTC unit. Under the direction of Sgt. Swink the 38 members of the club fire in intramural competition and compete for a berth on the Girl's Rifle Team which will represent the school in competition.

"Every Friday the rifle range is set aside for the exclusive use of the girls," said Sgt. Swink.

Television, radio shows headline OU activities

University students and faculty members will appear on radio and television programs next Sunday and Monday.

Dr. Berthe Koch, head of the Art Department, will be guest faculty member on the weekly "Meet the Faculty" show over station KOWH. The program will be given Sunday at 10 a.m. It is the second in a ten-week series.

Radio Director Bruce Linton will interview Dr. Koch.

The second in a series of four television programs on the theater will be given on WOW-TV Monday at 9:15 p.m. Dr. Edwin Clark will direct play production students in a demonstration of modern stage design.

On Feb. 25, dramatics students will give a one act play, "Why I Am a Bachelor."

Little white house poses problems for members of OU student body

By Les Sex

What's that little white house just west of the Administration building? No, it isn't that—OU has plumbing now.

Being a wanderer at heart, I decided to poll the faculty and students. This was going to be difficult, as no one has ever been seen coming out or going in the little white house.

I whizzed over to the Fieldhouse where both varsity and sub-varsity were working out. Coach Don Pflasterer ventured that it could be transformed into a Papoose practice floor—except that there isn't room for one basket—without net.

Some groups (the Tomahawk staff) think The Gateway staff ought to be moved farther off campus, and since tree houses are banned in Elmwood park. . . . There is one flaw in this idea. What would happen if someone wanted to type a story? There's plenty of room in there for a pencil—but a typewriter? Not a chance.

I finally solved the mystery. It's an equipment storage room for the female Phys department.

Indians tackle Vikings in Tuesday road game

Shooting for their eleventh win of the season, Coach Don Pflasterer's cagers will travel to Sioux Falls, S. D. Tuesday. There they will clash with Augustana College.

It will be the only meeting of the two schools this season. Last year the Vikings downed Omaha in the Indian Fieldhouse by a 68-53 margin.

With seven games left to play this season, the Omaha cagers will be fighting to better their last year's mark of 13 wins against 10 losses.

Vikings tough

But it will be a tough row to hoe for the Omaha cagers, as they clash with Cornell, Washburn, Morningside, Simpson, Colorado College and Creighton.

Not much is known about the Viking cage squad, but the Indians will have to be at their best to come home with a win under their belts.

Indian hopes were boosted by the performance of freshman Dick Davis. Davis has been improving steadily in the past few games and was one of the few standouts in the Creighton game.

OU outscores foes

Davis' performance was no surprise to the Omaha coaching staff. Coaches have faith in Davis' ability and are expecting great things from him.

So far this season, the Omaha basketballers have rolled up a total of 960 points for the 15 games played. This gives them an average of 70.7 points per game.

On the other side of the ledger, OU opponents have scored an even 800 counters and an

Omahans wallop Plainsmen 67-48

Shackling the second half efforts of 6 ft., 10 in. Don Boldebuck, Omaha University smothered Nebraska Wesleyan 37-48 in the Fieldhouse Monday night.

The victory was the second over the Plainsmen within a week, and kept the OU record unblemished against Nebraska College Conference opposition.

Wesleyan, banking their offense on the giant Boldebuck, kept abreast of the Indians until the latter part of the first half when the Red and Black rallied to lead at intermission 32-22.

With Don Claussen and Fred Shinrock leading the way, the Indians pulled away in the second half from the tiring Plainsmen. Coach Don Pflasterer swept the bench in the last two minutes and the reserves responded by increasing the margin.

Boldebuck naturally led the Wesleyan team with 23 counters, while Jack Woods turned in an excellent floor game.

Phys Ed majors organize at meeting this afternoon

Athletic Director Tom Brock has called a meeting of all Physical Education majors today. The meeting will be held in the varsity locker room at 2:15 p.m.

The object of the meeting is to organize a PE majors club at Omaha University.

The club would be affiliated with the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, a national organization.

average of exactly 60 points per game.

Shinrock stars

Don Claussen is another cager who has found himself in the last few games. Claussen, who is battling his grades to stay eligible, has led scoring in the last two Indian outings.

Fred Shinrock will undoubtedly be in the starting five Tuesday. The ex-North High dandy has been torrid from the floor since catching fire in early January against Peru.

Thetas, Blackhawks head for Intramural basketball showdown

Theta Phi Delta continued their domination of the Intramural basketball league this week. They downed Sigma Phi Epsilon 51-29 in the feature game.

Blackhawks got in their licks this week as they also dumped the once potent Sig Eps. The Blackhawks turned the trick by a 51-29 margin.

This sets the stage for a showdown between the two Squads Feb. 15. That is, if the Blackhawks can get by Theta Chi and remain undefeated.

In other 'mural action, Otoes beat Sigma Lambda Beta 25-18 and the Pawnees downed ROTC 31-20.

In the "B" league, Theta Chi was defeated by the Sig Eps 48-22.

Six transfer athletes boost OU's stock in spring sports

By Lee Nelson

Athletic fortunes at OU are really on the upgrade with the enrollment of several local sport stars for the second semester.

Such names as Dick Westin, Bob Schropp, Bob Gerdeman, Jack Marshall, Bernie Lainsin and Wayne Larsen will no doubt bring smiles to the head coaches of all the major sports.

Westin, a transfer from Nebraska, was an outstanding performer both on the gridiron and the cinder track while attending Benson High. Westin continued his talents to the college ranks but injuries plagued him throughout most of his stay at the Lincoln school.

Schropp devotes his time to three sports—football, baseball and track. Although a two year

Gerdeman will give a much needed lift to the track fortunes at OU with his abundant skill as a hurdler and middle distance man. Gerdeman also plays basketball and football. He is a transfer from Iowa U.

Bernie Lainsin is another smooth gentleman who will add to Ernie Gorr's track squad. Lainsin specializes in the middle distances and the one and two-mile runs.

'Dream Girl', chorus feature of tonight's Theta Chi Prom

The identity of 1952's "Dream Girl" will be revealed this evening at the annual Theta Chi Prom.

Intermission ceremonies at the all-Greek semi-formal dance at the Carter Lake Club will also feature a Theta Chi chorus singing sorority songs.

Ray Backman and his orchestra will furnish prom music from 9 to midnight. Dance chairmen are Don West and Larry Brehm.

The girls nominated for queen of the realm are Derelle Blumer, Zeta, Joan Godsey, Alpha Xi, Elaine Lof, Sigma Kappa and Donna Trambly, Chi Omega. Last year's Theta Chi "Dream Girl" was Lois Stewart, Chi Omega.

Intermission music

The fraternity chorus will serenade Greeks and their dates with "Down by the Rainbow's End," for Sigma Kappa, "My ZTA Girl," for Zeta Tau Alpha, "She's the Girl I Want to Know," for Alpha Xi Delta, and "You Can Tell a Chi Omega by Her Pearl Pin," for Chi Omega.

Choraleers at the "Dream Girl" prom include Ed Bernie, Bill Osick, Ray Hampton, Rudy Vancura, Jim Wright, Larry Brehm and Arnie Kriegler.

Others in the Theta Chi chorus will be Don Maseman, Jack Fraenkel, Harper Buck, John Overton, Sam Marasco, Chris Crowder, Santo Terrano, Bob Guide, Bill Whittaker and Roman Hruska, Jr.

Theme is dream

The decorations committee headed by Jack Dunlevy and Ed Berney will carry out the dance theme which centers around a dream.

Hal Davenport is in charge of the intermission program. Publicity chairman for the dance is Bill Osick, and Dale Koutsky is invitations chairman.

Sweet or slamming, there's a valentine for everybody

by Charlotte Weinberg

The day of the "Roses are red, violets are blue, sugar is sweet and I love you" card is over. For styles in valentines change, too.

Humorous cards now far out-sell the sentimental kind, according to Mr. Struyk, manager of Ted's Pen Shop, 303 S. 16th Street. Romanticists can still obtain the large dollar sized greetings complete with red satin hearts bearing such greetings as:

"You really are a honey, you're so sweet in every way,

And what's more you're sweeter still with every passing day."

This is a mild, noncommittal example. With a turn of the crank, one card emits rather jerky strains of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

Valentines are also getting more specific. Some can be addressed to "my great-aunt's sister-in-law."

A gal with a slight inferiority complex might send out this greeting picturing an old fashioned-prissy miss with glasses:

"I may not be the kind of gal who causes hearts to flutter, Nor leave the senses in a

Chi Omega plans for disabled kiddies

Games as well as refreshments of cokes and cookies will highlight a party for handicapped children to be given by Chi Omega.

The kiddie caper is scheduled for Benson Park Pavilion on Feb. 13. Chairmen Janet Brace and Maridell Meyers are planning the party through the Red Cross.

The sorority is also making plans for the "Shamrock Shuffle," all-Greek Dance on March 14. Dance chairman is Margie Claeson assisted by Gerry Antisdell.

Sig Lamb's plan Mardi Gras celebration for eve of Feb. 8

The Carter Lake Club will be the scene of this year's Mardi Gras celebration, sponsored by Sigma Lambda Beta fraternity.

Revelers at the semi-formal affair will dance to the music of Eddie Haddad and his orchestra.

A Greek card will be worth one vote in a beauty contest for Queen of the Mardi Gras. Janet Brace, Chi Omega; Vivian Cotton, Alpha Xi Delta; Dorothy Kappa Lambda Mu views initiation info

Kappa Lambda Mu, honorary music sorority, started initiation plans at a supper meeting Sunday.

Girls interested in belonging to the organization must have 12 or more credits in music and an accumulative average of 2.5.

If prospective members can meet these requirements, they must then submit their names to the Dean of Students.

New ISA'ers to sign-up soon

Prospective members of ISA will be able to sign up for the spring semester on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

A registration table will be set up in front of the registrar's office Feb. 11-13 from 9 to 2 p.m.

The tentative date of Feb. 22 has been selected for ISA's "Cherry Chop." At the dance a candidate to represent Omaha in the national "ISA Sweetheart" contest will be chosen.

Old and new members are urged to attend the Independent Student's Association's meeting next Wednesday when candidates for the Omaha sweetheart will be elected. "Cherry Chop" chairmen are Alice Gilinsky and Jane Hoff.

Phi Theta Chi sets introductory party

Phi Theta Chi, professional business sorority, will give a tea on Monday for prospective members.

Speaker for the 3 p.m. affair in room 100 will be Miss Leta Holley of the Business Administration Department.

The tea is for any girl fulfilling the sorority entrance requirements.

APO chooses new officers

Barney Kadis and Duane Post were re-elected to their positions in Alpha Phi Omega Tuesday night. They will serve as president and vice-president of the honorary service fraternity.

Recording secretary is Donald Chase and the new corresponding secretary is John Koch. John Swanson will serve as treasurer with James Klein as historian and Robert Pierce as alumni secretary.

Plans were discussed for sending representatives to the APO sectional conference at Columbia, Missouri on Feb. 16 and 17. Representatives will be elected at the next meeting.

Plans for rushing and the Good Will Drive on Feb. 16 were also brought up at the meeting.

May 20 set for 'Campus Sing'

The second annual Campus Sing has been scheduled for May 20. Co-sponsored by Waakiya and Omicron Delta Kappa, the choraling will begin at dusk on the front steps of the university.

Tapping for both of the honoraries will follow the singing by the men's and women's sections. Each group participating will sing one selection chosen by Waakiya and ODK, and will choose one song of their own. The sponsors hope to have all sing preparations completed by mid-March.

Committee members for the Campus Sing from ODK include Jim Daley, Rolly Klonfleisch, Fred Pisasale and Del Hansen. Waakiya committee members will be named next week.

Winners of 1951's Campus Sing were Theta Chi and Zeta Tau Alpha.
